

Royalty payments

Often landowners aren't made aware by condemning entities that royalty payments are an option in negotiating a contract.

Property owners should have the ability to request royalty payments as an option in negotiating payment. A section should be added in statute stating that condemning entities and property owners can agree to this type of payment. This option should be permissive, but noticeably available to property owners.